MARTINSVILLE
WARREN COUNTY, KENTUCKY

We have read stories how in ancient times cities were obliterated and their identity lost, but in our new and progressive America very few places that ever grew to any size have been entirely deserted and their very existence almost forgotten. So far as the modern history of our state is concerned there is only one place in Kentucky which reached the proportions of a city that has passed from the memory of man--Martinsville.

This city at one time could boast of her three hundred residences, her fleets of flat boats that plied the river, her great warehouses and immense shipping and her ten hundred souls within her limits. With overflowing storehouses and surrounded by thousands of acres of the most fertile farming lands in the world, this ill-fated city declined and gradually passed from the shores of the quick into the haven of the dead.

Martinsville was founded in the spring of 1785. It was located on the north bank of Barren River, in Warren county, some twenty miles east of Bowling Green. The place was first settled and took its name from Hut Martin, a hardy pioneer accustomed to the vicissitudes of frontier life. He was a native of Virginia who came to Kentucky in 1777 and settled at Boonesboro. He was a friend and companion of Daniel Boone and materially aided that great explorer in conquering the wilderness and opening to civilization a vast domain of untold wealth.

In the fall of 1777, Boone, Martin, McFaddin and others left the infant settlement at Boonesboro and set out on a journey into the wilds of the unexplored West. They crossed the divide, passed through what are now Green, Adair, Cumberland and Barren Counties and came to the Indian house on Barren River in Warren County. From that point they scoured the larger part of Warren and Allen Counties in quest of game. In December they returned to Boonesboro where, on account of the hostility of the savages, they were compelled to remain for some time. During the interim Martin kept his mind's eye on the fertile valley down on the beautiful Wah-ri-he (Barren) River, determined to journey thither as soon as the disturbed state of the natives would allow.

Accordingly in March, 1785, he put his resolutions into effect and set out with his family and possessions in a caravan train for the shores of the Wah-ri-he. With him came Andrew McFaddin, Stephen Claypool, Charles Dabney and fifteen other families. McFaddin settled on Barren River, four miles east of the present city of Bowling Green. His place was known as "McFaddin's Station" and was located on the farm now owned by Mr. Emmet Logan. Ruins of this old station are still visible. Claypool settled on the south side of the river one mile from Martinsville. Dabney took up land in "the Bend" four miles above Martinsville.

In all, seventeen grants were issued in 1785 to settlers on Barren River in the "County of Kentucky" by Patrick Henry, who was then Governor of Virginia. Of all of these original patents only one, that of Charles Dabney, dated at Richmond, 02 October 1785 and bearing the signature of Patrick Henry, is known to be extant.

Hut Martin settled on the north bluff of the river above the large spring, which is known today as Martinsville Spring. Four other families built their cabins on lots, or grants, adjoining Martin's, thus forming the nucleus for a village. The new settlers were prosperous from the start, and during the next few years emigrants poured into the settlement steadily. In 1790 Martinsville had grown from a stockade of four cabins to a town of 300 inhabitants. Game was abundant and the soil yielded bountiful harvests. Corn and tobacco were the chief products. Flatboats were built and these valuable commodities were shipped by water to New Orleans. The little village on the hill above Barren River soon became a busy mart and in the year 1799 had a population of 600 souls. Over 300 flatboats were loaded and floated from that point to New Orleans annually.

McFaddin's and Claypool's Stations, while of considerable importance, were left far behind in the race as commercial centers with their sister settlement at Martinsville. In 1800 Martinsville was the metropolis of Warren County and with a steadily increasing population promised to be the place of first importance in Southwestern Kentucky. Wealth continued to pour into the coffers of the industrious husbandmen and the staunch captains of the river craft. Business increased as the population increased, large warehouses were built, substantial residences were erected and more boats were launched. The index pointed toward prosperity and happiness. Those were the golden days--days of peace, health and plenty.

Soon after the death of Martin, the founder of the city, other old pioneers passed away in rapid succession. The energy of the people was broken. One by one the fleet of flatboats sunk to the bottom of the river to rot; one by one the people perished, houses were deserted, and the homes of a once happy people became resting places for bats and owls. The hum and whirr of the busy workmen was heard no more, business was paralyzed, the river ceased to carry its freight. Dissolution and ruin seized the place, which men said was "scourged of God." The buildings crumbled and fell, the streets became a garden of weeds. In 1860 a party of roisters dared to face the spooks which walked abroad in the desolate places, and, after a night of revelry, tore the old Martin residence and warehouse from their foundation stones, and not a house was left in the once populous city of Martinsville. Today only the gloomy graveyard and piles of debris remain to mark the old town site.

SCOTTISH PAROCHIAL REGISTERS NOW AVAILABLE

In a memorandum dated 1 Sep 1991, literature, forms and instructions were circulated along with microfiche copies of the new, "Composite Indexes to Birth and Marriage Records in the Old Parochial Registers of Scotland", to Family History Centers, (LDS Church Branch Libraries), and 'certain other institutions worldwide. This is a major new research tool for those seeking ancestry in Scotland.

These records are available from both the General Register Office of Scotland, New Register House, Edinburgh, EH13YT, Scotland, and the Family History Library, Salt Lake City, UT 84150 or its many Family History Centers. The collection is on nanofiche, a compact form of microfiche, and is the result of a cooperative effort between the LDS Church, the General Register Office of Scotland and Her Britannic Majesty's Stationary Office.

The registers are of the Established Church of Scotland [Presbyterian] and provide a comprehensive collection of births and marriages prior to 1855, at which time Civil Registration became law in Scotland. Since this is a new filming, many records once thought to be lost are included and cover over 6 million births/christenings and 2.2 million marriages. Blotter or scroll records are found as well under the term miscellaneous records [MR's]; however, no deaths or burials and no records of other denominations are included.

The earliest entry is for the year 1553, though some county's records do not begin before the 1800's. All surviving records for every county in which they are extant are included before 1855. Unfortunately, some parish registers no longer exist.

One should remember that all entries are alphabetical "according to the actual spelling", unless the Greek letter Beta "B" is found, in which case an evaluated spelling has been used. Records not decipherable are not listed at all, so when in doubt check the actual register. Corrections may be submitted to Salt Lake City by using the "FHC Reference Questionnaire" available along with instructions at all Family History Centers.

"Given and Surname Indexes to both births and marriages are provided for each county of Scotland, together with 'Instructions' microfiche." Each county has four indexes, one each for given name and surname, and christenings or marriages. . . brides and grooms are indexed together. "Index entries give: person's name; sex; parent or spouse name(s); event type (birth, christening or marriage); date and place (parish) of the record entry; Batch/Serial Number (to identify source microfilms); and [for entries not in chronological order], 'FR' numbers which correspond to frame numbers on source microfilms.

The Indexes group all 'Mac' equivalent names (M, Mc, Mac, Mk, etc.) under "Mac". Feminine forms of 'Nic' and 'Vic' are listed under N and V respectively.

The first name index is quite useful as well. If one is sure of the parish or county and is not finding the proper entries, use this as well. Even after exhausting all known possible surname variants the entry may be located by use of this index.

Though many volunteers have labored to make this collections possible, the project was directed and technically supervised by David E. Gardner, FSG and Goerge Jordan, MA, BSEE.

To locate the fiche one may need at the local Family History Center, use the table below. To locate the nearest FHC, call the nearest church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, or the Church Office in Salt Lake City, UT.

The fiche numbers do not indicate the number of actual cards per county, each number is assigned to a particular index and county and then the cards within that sequence are filed alphabetically. Separate indexes exist for Aberdeen, Dundee and Glasgow, but they are only available through Salt Lake City. The actual films may be found either by use of the county indexes and source numbers, or by using the Family History Library Catalogue and checking Locality Search, County of interest and Church Records section. This should be used to acquire records from the region for other denominations or faiths.

MICROFILM IS AVAILABLE TO READ AT THE LOGAN COUNTY LIBRARY

You can now read microfilm at Logan County Library and also get a copy of the page you are reading if you wish.

Thanks to a grant from the E. Rhodes and Leona B. Carpenter Foundation, a new microfilm reader/printer has been purchased for public use. An old reader ceased operation altogether months ago, and it did not have printing capability, even before its demise. The user had to copy by hand information from the microfilm.

What does Logan County Library have on microfilm that you would be interested in reading?

One hundred years of census records for Logan County list residents and information about them from 1810 to 1910. You can look up your ancestors, find out where they were born, and the names of members of their family. More recent census records are not available because the Right to Privacy Act protects the names and personal information for 70 years.

Local newspapers are available on microfilm. The library has a complete run of The News-Democrat from 1936 to the present time and The Logan Leader since its beginning in 1968.

Microfilm copies of the Adairville Enterprise and Auburn News when they were in existence are on file. Scattered issues of predecessors of the Russellville papers are preserved on microfilm--from The Herald Enterprise that was published in 1884 forward into the Twentieth Century with The Russellville Herald, The Russellville Times, The Russellville Messenger, The Herald Ledger, and Logan County News.

The first newspaper published west of the Allegheny Mountains was the Kentucky Gazette that began in 1790. Logan County Library has copies of this historic newspaper on microfilm. You can read both sides of the debate as to whether it would be a good idea for Kentucky to break away from Virginia and become an independent state.

For fascinating nostalgia or for serious research into Kentucky or local history, use your library's microfilm collections.

THOSE DISAPPEARING ANCESTORS!
by Landon Wills

Copied with permission from BLUEGRASS ROOTS, Vol VII, NO 2, p. 29.

Nearly every family researcher has had an ancestor who simply disappeared from the records without a trace. The individual may have been on some reliable record, such as a baptism or marriage record, a deed or tax list. Then, with no explanation, that individual cannot be found on any later record.

Sometimes there is an logical explanation: the person died without a will or property settlement (and before death records were required or no death certificate was filed); moved to another county or state; or, in case of a woman, married a man whose name is not known. Occasionally, the woman married a man with the same surname as hers, causing confusion.

The evolution in names in the early days has caused confusion. Guyot in Normandy becomes Wiat in Yorkshire, Wyat in Kent and Wyatt in Virginia--all the same family. Or a surname has radically different spellings that even defy Soundex, such as Quisenberry and Cushenberry.

Sometimes a person with two christened names drops one and uses the other. Example: Elizabeth M. (for Malene) Razor makes marriage bond in Owen County to marry Franz Hartman. Then she turns up on Henry County census as "Malane," wife of Frank Hartman. (Possibly she dropped her Elizabeth because she had a cousin also named Elizabeth.)

Another problem is the reckless use of different forms of the same name; for example, the same person using Mary on one record and Polly on the next. And pity the poor man (and anyone researching his family) who had four daughters-in-law named Catherine.

Another possibility, especially in research in Kentucky between 1800 and 1860, is that a family or, more likely, a single man went to some other state and was lost as far as records are concerned. There was a period when the frequent answer to "What became of so and so?" was "GTT," which meant "Gone to Texas." Sometimes the one going to Texas was escaping from legal charges, bill collectors, a hostile neighbor, a family or a nagging wife and didn't want to leave a trace for anyone to follow, then or now.

. After all of these possibilities are exhausted, there is still another that has happened in a few cases and may be overlooked by the researcher. That is the possibility of a name being changed by legal process.

In the early years in Kentucky, a name change required an act of the legislature. Glen Clift's list of Kentucky divorces from 1792-1849 contains many name changes. Most of these changes resulted from and followed divorces; however, there are some that may not have resulted from a divorce. And several of these acts not only restored her maiden name to a woman, but also gave her maiden name to her children. It would probably never occur to a researcher to look for them under their mother's maiden name.

DIVORCES GRANTED BY LEGISLATURE AND COURTS IN KENTUCKY, 1792 - 1849

Divorce records are not as basic in genealogical research as birth, marriage and death records. However, there may be cases when a divorce record is a key to understanding an ancestor's whole life. When Kentucky became a state, the only way to get a divorce was to secure an act of the legislature granting the divorce. Then, on 31 January, 1809, a law was passed giving circuit courts authority to grant divorces on certain grounds. But the Court of Appeals soon held that circuit courts had no jurisdiction except by statute. So, for a period, there were two ways to obtain a divorce.

One way was for both parties to ask for and to obtain a special act of the legislature. The other was for one party to sue under the 1809 statute, qualifying on the grounds listed in the statute. In some cases, the legislature referred the case to circuit court for judicial findings.

When the third Kentucky constitution was written in 1849, the legislature was forbidden to grant divorces. After that, divorces were granted only by circuit courts until 1972, when divorces were changed to "dissolutions of marriage."

Glenn Clift made the following list while working for the Kentucky Historical Society in the 1950's. It was compiled from reports of legislative acts and circuit court records. However, it is not 100% complete as some records have been lost. If you are searching for a divorce in Kentucky from 1792 to 1849 and cannot find it recorded here, it would pay you to also look in the circuit court clerk's records in the county in which the couple lived.

BOOK REVIEW

SOME MARTIN FAMILIES: DESCENDENTS OF MARTIN DE TOURS AND GEVA DE BURCI 1033-1991, compiled by Leroy and Mildred (English) Collier. Published 1992. Hardbound. 104 pages + 25 page full-name index—listing women by both maiden & married surnames. Price $32.50 (includes postage, handling & tax). Order from compilers at 1644 Smallhouse Rd., Bowling Green, KY 42104.

Twelve years of research are reflected in this nice volume. Sources used include family Bible records, L.D.S. records, private files of various Martin researchers, U.S. Census records, as well as court, church, cemetery and other traditional genealogical sources. Researchers will be glad to see the many end notes giving exact sources which this volume provides.

The book, divided into eighteen chapters, with the heading for each chapter pinpointing the line of descent of the particular family to Martin DeTours and his wife Geva de Burci, gives marriage, birth & death dates in full (when known), as well as other interesting information. The Martin families, who in colonial times migrated from England to Virginia and Maryland and have now spread across the nation, will enjoy this new addition to Martin lines.

Using the 8870 formula to ascertain a birth date can be a tremendous help to the genealogist when checking tombstone dates. If a tombstone records that a person died May 6, 1889 and was 71 years, 7 months and 9 days only but no date of birth is given, one has only to count backwork to correctly arrive at the birthdate.

	18890506	Died 1889 May 6
subtract	710709	71 years, 7 months, 9 days
	18179797
subtract	8870	constant
	18170927	Born 1817 Sep 27

DEEDS ARE GREAT SOURCES OF AID TO GENEALOGISTS

Many researchers ignore deeds when seeking ancestors, but they may be missing a great wealth of information. Deeds are important because early Americans were land-minded. Until well into the 19th Century nearly every male who lived to maturity can be found in the land records. These records exist from the very beginning of the settlement of American and frequently are one of the few records available to us. The older the record, the more likely it is to contain genealogical data. Just what can be discovered about your forefathers from deeds?

1. When and where did they live? Every deed mentions the county and state wherein each party resided, as well as the date of the transaction.
2. Who were their neighbors? Many times the names of adjoining landowners are listed in a deed.
3. Who were their wives? If land had been inherited through the wife, she had to sign away her dower rights, especially in older deeds.
4. Who were other members of the family? If the children inherit without a will, many times their names and the names of their spouses are listed in a deed.

Kentucky is known as a state-land state as are Maine, Texas, Tennessee, Vermont, West Virginia and the thirteen original colonies. All state-land states retained ownership and control of ungranted public lands. All transactions were under the direction of individual counties within its boundaries. After the Revolutionary War the state-land states continued to grant their previously ungranted land just as had the parent colonies.

The land-grant process might be confusing to some and need some explanation. A warrant, which is an order for "laying out" of the lands to be granted, was entered into the county records. Next the land was surveyed and measured and a plat, a map of the tract with the metes and bounds described, was made. When the grantee was ready to take possession of the land, he was given a document which was nothing more than a brief statement of confirmation. This document was called a patent before the Revolutionary War and a grant afterwards. Military warrants were granted for service in the French and Indian War 1763, and for service in the Revolution.

The Homestead Law of Virginia was passed in June of 1776 saying that all pioneers who possessed land in Kentucky prior to that date should be allowed 400 acres by homestead. Virginia's failure to adequately survey Kentucky was the cause for endless land litigations. Court action concerning these early surveys and grants has persisted down to the present time and will probably continue for generations to come. The whole territory of Kentucky was shingled over with land claims.

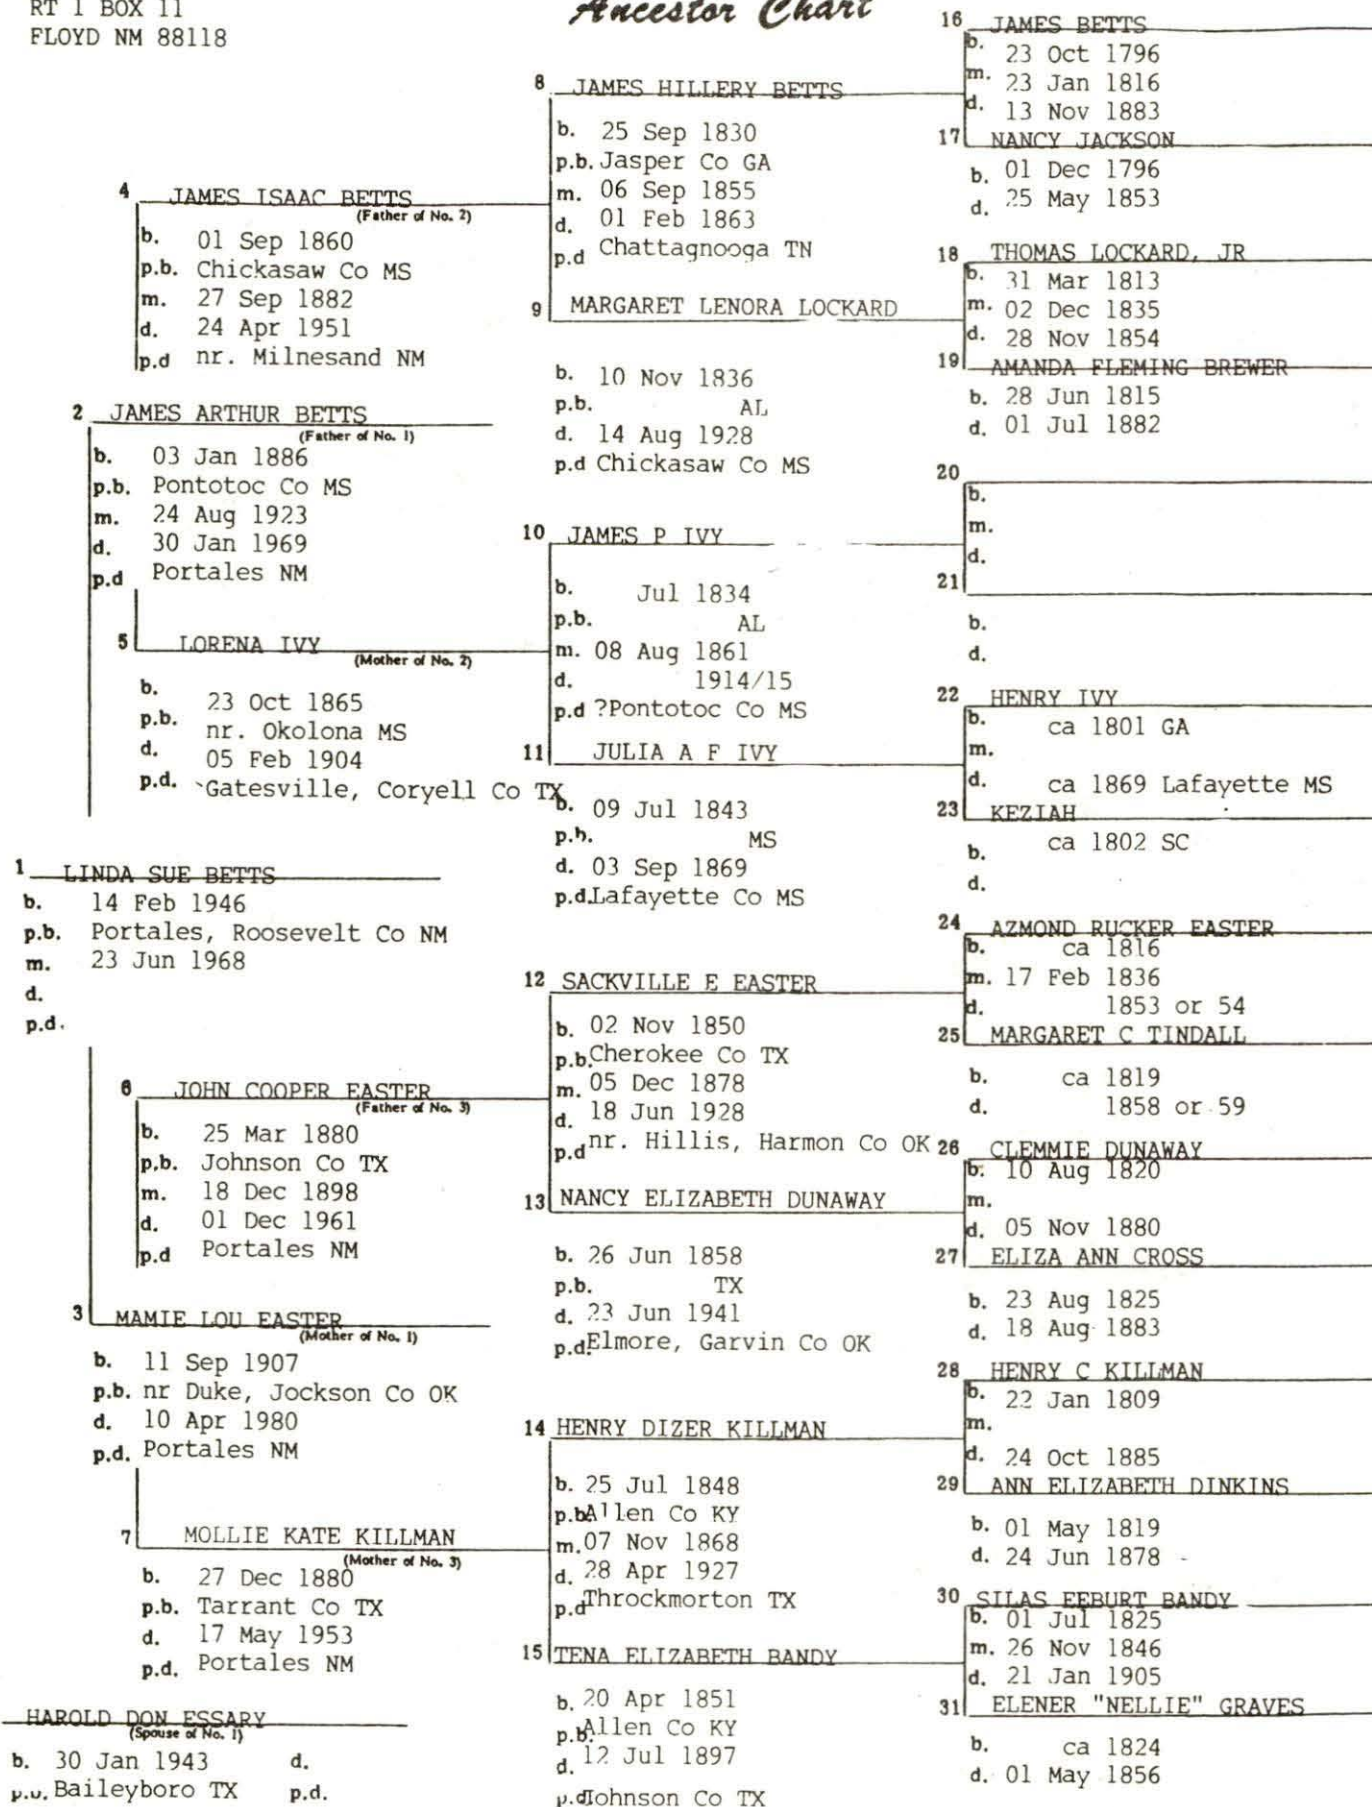

Before one starts using the early Kentucky deed books, one should learn when the county was formed and from which other county or counties it came. For instance Warren County was formed in 1797 from Logan County. If your people were here before 1797, don't come to Bowling Green to research deed books, but go to Russellville instead.

Be sure to check both grantor (seller) and grantee (buyer) indexes.

Ancestor Chart

Note the date of the deed, which may tell you when your ancestor came to or left that locality. Also take notice of any landmarks, such as roads, waterways, caves or quarries that may be mentioned.

Some people may not realize that documents other than deeds are also included in Kentucky deed books.

Powers of attorney, which many times give the relationship of the parties, are filed in deed books. They may be limited, giving only specific power for a designated length of time or they may be broad, giving power to act in all situations.

A very choice document called "An Affidavit of Descent" is also placed in deed books. This instrument is used many times when land passes from one party through another party to a third party without a transfer of title having been used. For instance, John Smith may have made a will before dying, leaving all property to his spouse Sally Smith. Sally, in all likelihood, would not have the title transferred to her name unless she wanted to sell the property. She might die without a will, and her children would inherit the property. In order for them to sell the land and divide the estate, they must show their right to the property. An affidavit of descent is entered into the deed book stating that Sally Smith was heir of John Smith who died on such and such a date, that she also died on such and such a date, leaving as heirs those listed in the document which gives their exact relationships to Sally and their addresses.

GLEANINGS FROM HENRIETTA BENTON JOHNSON'S SCRAPBOOK

Note: The following newspaper clippings are from a scrapbook which was kept by Henrietta Benton Johnson (ca. 1846-1922). Most of the clippings are from Bowling Green, KY, papers. Some few are from an early paper/papers in Carmi, IL. The clippings are not known to exist elsewhere.

S.K.G.S. member Lloyd Raymer has graciously shared the following information on previously published clippings numbers 275 and 276: GIDEON FLOYD, b. 28 May 1822-d. 26 Apr 1886, was buried in Flora Cemetery at Sand Hill. He was the son of Enoch and Susan (Lee) Floyd. ANNIE D. FLOYD, b. 10 Apr 1812-d. 16 Jul 1891, never married. She was the sister of Gideon and was buried in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

280. A telegram was received this morning by Mr. Chas. Davenport, announcing the serious illness of his father-in-law, MR. BOWMAN STEPHENS, who is in Florida, whither he went some time ago in the hope of recovering his fast failing health. He is now critically ill and the announcement of his death may be expected at any time.

281. MRS. BOWMAN STEPHENS DEAD. Last night, at 8:30 o'clock, Mrs. Bowman Stephens died at her home in the country, after a lingering illness. She went to Chicago several weeks ago and placed herself in the charge of physicians there, and it was thought at one time that she would recover, but after coming home she took a turn for the worse, and despite all that could be done died as stated above. She was the daughter of Fidella Lucas, deceased, and sister to James, Edward, Charley and John Lucas, and was the mother of Mrs. Chas. Davenport. Her husband and daughter survive her, and they are bowed down with grief over their irreparable loss. The funeral services will be conducted tomorrow morning, at the C.P. church, by Rev. Jesse S. Grider, at 10 o'clock, after which the interment will take place in Fairview cemetery.

282. Oct. 17, 1890. How sweetly she is sleeping/ In her grave beneath the sod;/ Oh, we could not wish to wake her/ From her slumber there with God./ She has gone to live with Jesus/ In that land so pure and bright;/ She is with the happy angels/ Robed forevermore in white./ She has passed from care and pain/ And the ills of earthly life;/ Nevermore to know of sorrow,/ Nevermore to know of strife./ Oh, how sadly we shall miss her/ In the days fast passing by;/ But we hope to meet thee there, Pearl,/ In our home beyond the sky./ Pro Patria--Nellie A. Goss, Forest City, Iowa.

283. MR. BOWMAN STEPHENS DEAD. HE PASSES AWAY IN FLORIDA AND WILL BE BROUGHT HERE WEDNESDAY FOR INTERMENT. News was received here yesterday of the death of Mr. Bowman Stephens at Kissimmee, Florida, where he went some months ago in the hope of recuperating his fast failing health.

Several days ago he grew worse and his daughter, Mrs. Chas. Davenport was telegraphed for and left immediately to be with him in his illness. He was beyond human aid, however, and though he made a strong fight against death, was forced to submit to the inevitable. The remains are expected to arrive here Wednesday and will be interred in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. Stephens was one of Warren county's best and most substantial citizens and his death will be regretted by a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

284. [Died] August 7th, MRS. LAURA VICK after a protracted illness with fever and lung trouble. She had been a member of the church over two years. She leaves four brothers to mourn their loss, and they have our sympathies. Pastor preached her funeral on the 8th, and her remains were taken to Fair View Cemetery.

285. MR. BOWMAN STEPHEN'S FUNERAL. The remains of the late Bowman Stephens arrived here this morning at 10 o'clock from Florida and were met at the depot by sorrowing friends. The coffin was placed in a hearse and conducted to his late residence, about three miles from the city. The funeral will occur tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Cumberland Presbyterian church; services by Dr. J. S. Grider. The interment will occur at Fairview Cemetery.

286. CHARLIE RUNNER, of Hadley, is the father of a fine ten pound baby boy.

287. Just as we are going to press the sad intelligence is brought us of the death of MR. WILLIAM H. STERRETT. He died about nine o'clock yesterday morning at the home of his mother near this place. He was a young man of the greatest promise, exceedingly popular, and a few weeks ago seemed to be in robust health. His death will be noticed more fully in next week's issue.

288. DR. YOUNGLOVE PASSES ON AFTER LONG YEARS OF USEFULNESS. ONE OF BOWLING GREEN'S OLDEST AND MOST PROMINENT CITIZENS DIES OF PARALYSIS. Dr. John E. Younglove, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens in Bowling Green, died this morning at 11:40 o'clock at his apartments [sic] at the corner of State and Main streets after an illness of several months.

He was born ninety years ago last September at Johnstown, N.Y., and came here in 1846 and engaged in the drug business with his brother, Joseph I. Younglove.

After his brother's death Dr. Younglove continued to run the drug business, until his health failed him some years ago.

His wife died many years ago. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Margaret Y. Calvert, of this city.

The funeral services will occur on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock at the First Presbyterian Church, and will be conducted by Dr. C. B. Boving. The interment will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Dr. Younglove was probably the oldest member of the First Presbyterian Church, and had been an elder in this church for many years.

Dr. Younglove was an uncle of Mrs. Lyda Calvert Obenchain, and of Misses Josephine and Margaret Calvert, all of this city.

289. FUNERAL OF DR. YOUNGLOVE. The funeral of the late Dr. John E. Younglove will be held from the First Presbyterian Church at 10 o'clock on Thursday morning.

The following gentlemen will act as pallbearers: Messrs. I. D. McGoodwin, C. U. McElroy, W. D. McElroy, E. T. Barr, A. H. Taylor, L. T. Warden, D. W. Wright and Judge McKenzie Moss.

290. THREE SCORE AND TWENTY. RECORDS FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH SHOW 15 MEMBERS PAST 80 YEARS. The First Presbyterian church of this city can probably boast of more members that have reached the three score and ten years than any other denomination. In looking over the records of the church it was a remarkable co-incident that fifteen members out of the 670 (this includes two who are members of the congregation) who have past the eightieth milestone of life, and many who are past 70 years. Those who are actively affiliated with the church who have passed the three score and twenty are William (Fish) Cook, Mrs. Adeline Cook, Judge and Mrs. Robert Rodes, Sr., Joe W. Barclay, Mr. and Mrs. J. Asher Graham, Maj. R. M. Cox, Miss Columbus Buckner, Mrs. Ezekial Wagner, Dr. John E. Younglove, Mrs. Harriett Jackson, Mrs. Henry Schray, Capt. Charles Vanmeter, and Dave Campbell.

291. RETIRED MERCHANT HAS PASSED AWAY. WM. T. SPALDING DIED TO-DAY AT HIS HOME ON THE LOUISVILLE PIKE ABOUT TWO MILES FROM CITY. William T. Spalding died of causes incident to old age on Wednesday afternoon at 1:25 o'clock at the home of his son, Charles Spalding, who resides on the Louisville Pike. The deceased was born in Warren County and would have been eighty-three years of age on June 17. He was married in 1860 to Miss Anna Jenkins, who died several years ago. He is survived by one son, Charles Spalding, and a brother, A. S. Spalding. The deceased was a good citizen and business man, being in the mercantile business for thirty years previous to his retirement a number of years ago, when he moved to the suburban home of his son. His place of business was where Virgil Morris is located, on Park Row.

The funeral service will occur on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence, Rev. R. W. Binkley officiating. The service at Fairview Cemetery will be in charge of Bowling Green Lodge No. 73, F. and A. M.

292. MARRIAGE TUESDAY NIGHT OF MISS DAISY DEAN BEARCE. FORTUNATE GROOM IS MR. HENCRY C. FORRESTER, OF MISSISSIPPI. A VERY ELABORATE WEDDING. One of the most elaborate weddings which has taken place in Bowling Green in years will be the marriage Tuesday night of Miss Daisy Dean Bearce of this city, to Mr. Henry Collier Forrester, of Meridian, Miss. The ceremony will be said by Dr. W. F. Lloyd at the State-street Methodist church at 9 o'clock.

The bride and groom will leave at midnight for Albany, Ga., where they will attend the marriage of Mr. Forester's sister. They will then make a tour of the South and will be at home to their friends in Meridian after December 1.

No invitations to the marriage have been issued to friends of the contracting parties in this city but they are invited to be presents. Following the marriage an elegant supper will be served the bridal party at the home of Mr. John W. Bearce on Park street.

The color scheme of the wedding will be pink and white throughout. The maid of honor will be Miss Annie Mae Moseley. She will wear a handsome gown of pink crepe de chine. 301. ETERNAL SLEEP FOR NAT A. PORTER. SINKS INTO REST AFTER VAIN STRUGGLE WITH INCURABLE AILMENT. DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN MEETS HIS END IN THE CITY OF MONTGOMERY, ALA. HIS LONG PUBLIC LIFE WAS WITHOUT A STAIN, AND HIS EXAMPLE A HERITAGE OF GOOD DEEDS TO HIS FRIENDS. After a futile struggle against the ravages of disease for three years, Hon. Nat A. Porter gave up the fight this morning, and sank to sleep. He died at the home of his nephew, Mr. Silas N. McKay, at Montgomery, Ala., of Bright's disease. The information was contained in a message to Mr. T. H. Beard and Dr. T. O. Helm.

While not unexpected, the news will be received with sorrow by the thousands of friends of Mr. Porter, who had learned to love him during his long residence in this city.

Nat A. Porter was born in Sugar Grove, Butler County, fifty-seven years ago. He was the son of Rev. Nathaniel Porter, a noted Presbyterian minister. His mother was Miss Sarah Helm.

Receiving his preliminary education at the Auburn Seminary, he entered the Cumberland Law University, at Lebanon, Tenn., where he graduated with honors, and then removed to this city and entered into partnership with his brother, the late John M. Porter. He took a front rank at once, and upon the retirement of his brother from the office of Commonwealth's Attorney of this district, he was elected, and served with distinction for eighteen years.

In the arduous work attending this office, Mr. Porter gave the best years of his life, and there was never a more earnest nor conscientious official. Lawbreakers found no compromise but he was never persecutor of the innocent.

He resigned the office of Commonwealth's Attorney to go to the State Senate, where he easily took front rank in the debates upon all-important topics. His counsel was asked and his advice sought on all consequential legislation.

Three years ago, on account of the ravages of disease, he was forced to retire from his profession and to retire to the home of a relative at Auburn. Last February, in the hope that the climate of the South would benefit him, he went to Montgomery, Ala. He grew gradually worse until his death.

He leaves one sister, Mrs. F. G. McKay, of Montgomery, and a number of nephews, among these being Herschel McKay, of Houston, Texas; Porter and Silas McKay, of Montgomery, Ala.; Grider McKay, of Lexington, Ky.; William Beard, of Smith's Grove; Thomas H. Beard and Dr. T. O. Helm, of this city.

The remains will arrive in this city to-morrow morning and be taken to the home of Dr. Helm. At 3 o'clock the funeral will take place from the Eleventh Street Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member, and the services will be conducted by Rev. Jesse S. Grider, of Smith's Grove. The interment will follow at Fairview Cemetery.

The records cited above show that James Isbell, Sr. and his family were in Wilkes Co, NC no later than 08 Dec 1778. James Isbell, Sr. was deceased by 06 Mar 1781 on which date Francis and Livingston Isbell were bonded in the amount of 100,000 lbs. as administrators of his estate. This family had moved from Orange Co., Virginia to Wilkes Co., NC. The wife of James Isbell, Sr., has not been positively identified. The fact that a John [Johnson] O. Livingston lived as a neighbor of members of the Isbell family and that the name Livingston has been used for several generations in the Isbell family may indicate that his wife was a Livingston. Such an assumption must not be accepted without proof. A deed dated Jan 1760 found in Orange Co VA Deed Book 13, p. 174 gives the name of the wife of James Isbell, Sr. of Orange Co VA and Wilkes Co NC. James and Frances, his wife, Isbell of Orange County sold for 40 lbs. 200 acres to Abraham Crosthwait of Culpeper Co VA. No watercourse or adjoining landowners were mentioned.

The children of James Isbell indicated by the records that are presented above are listed below. There were probably others children and daughters have not been identified if there were any.

1. Francis Isbell-may be the wife Frances, rather than a son.
2. Livingston Isbell.
3. James Isbell, Jr.
4. Thomas Isbell.
5. Daniel Isbell.
6. William Isbell.
7. Godfrey Isbeell*
8. Pendleton [Penenton, Peniton, etc.] Isbell*

*Note: The evidence that these two men are sons of James Isbell, Sr. is weaker than for the others and it is possible that they are related to James in some other way than as sons.

James Isbell, Jr. son of James Isbell, Sr., was born 03 Apr 1760, Orange Co VA and died 01 Apr 1840 in Warren Co KY. He had moved to Green County, KY by about 1795 and he later moved to Warren Co KY. He was married twice--first to an unidentified woman in Wilkes Co, NC and second on 04 Aug 1819 in Warren Co KY to Mary "Polly" Simpson. Thomas Isbell, the only issue of the second marriage, was born about 1820.

James Isbell's will in Will Book D, p 140, Warren Co KY mentions his wife Polly Isbell, his three sons Livingston, Thomas & John and daughter Nancy Sturdivant, the children of his daughter Nelly Walker and daughter in law Polly Isbell [widow of son Henry] & her present children. His friend Edmund Payne appointed executor. Witness Jonathan Hobson, John Keel and John Heard.

4. Livingston Isbell, b 1784-1794.
5. Nancy Isbell, b 1794-1800.
6. Thomas Isbell, b. about 1820, Warren Co., KY.

The compiler of these records expresses his appreciation to the staff of the Kentucky Library, Western Kentucky University for much valuable assistance in the research required for this work. WARREN COUNTY CEMETERIES

Local members of The Southern Kentucky Genealogical Society have begun work on locating and recording the cemeteries of Warren County. We plan to list as many as possible, giving the location, condition and accessibility of each one and the names of those buried there.

We realize that this will take quite a while, but we wish to do as thorough and accurate job as possible. If you know of any burial grounds in Warren County that you think we might overlook, please let us know.
